

Position title: Post-Doctoral Geotechnical Engineer

Our Company

SoilVision Systems Ltd. has built a reputation as a fast-growing innovative company providing leading edge software & consulting to the worldwide geotechnical engineering community.

This is an excellent job opportunity for motivated recent Ph.D. graduates looking to play a key role in software research environment for a rapidly expanding company.

Duties:

- Research and development of new and innovative geotechnical software solutions
- Review and write technical documentation including test plans, requirements specifications, design specifications.
- Experience in the application of geotechnical engineering to problem solving.

Qualifications:

- Minimum of Ph.D. in geotechnical engineering.
- Experience using the C#.NET, VB.NET and/or Java languages (object oriented technologies).
- Knowledge of database environments such as Access, SQL Server, MySQL or ORACLE database software would be beneficial.
- Applicants with project experience will be preferred.

Salary:

Competitive salary package & attractive benefits offered.

Interested persons should submit a detailed resume including academic and professional experience and the names of three or more references to murray@soilvision.com. For more information about our company visit our website at www.soilvision.com.