

Position title: Junior Geotechnical Engineer

Our Company

SoilVision Systems Ltd. has built a reputation as a fast-growing innovative company providing leading edge software & consulting to the worldwide geotechnical engineering community.

This is an excellent job opportunity for motivated geotechnical engineer looking to play a key role in geotechnical software development for a rapidly expanding company.

Duties:

- Design, development, & testing of complex geotechnical models requested by clientele.
- Design, development & testing of complex geotechnical models on company software
- Review and write technical documentation including test plans, requirements specifications, design specifications.
- Experience in the application of geotechnical engineering to problem solving.
- Test, discover, and document software defects.
- Review status of testing efforts
- Performs other related duties as assigned.

Qualifications:

- Advanced knowledge of unsaturated soil mechanics
- Experience with geotechnical slope stability and seepage modeling software
- Minimum of B.Sc. in geotechnical engineering.
- Experience using the C#.NET, VB.NET and/or Java languages (object oriented technologies).
- Personable and able to establish relationships and communicate with clientele.
- Applicants with project experience will be preferred.

Salary:

Competitive salary package & attractive benefits offered.

Deadline:

Applications are to be received by May 1, 2009

Interested persons should submit a detailed resume including academic and professional experience and the names of three or more references to murray@soilvision.com. For more information about our company visit our website at www.soilvision.com.